Chef Ajay Samtani

Our Alumnus

On your daily bread

Ajay Samtani, executive chef,
Le Café and Via Bombay,
Chembur

Avocado is densely fibrous and has vitamins like K, E and C. Since it has different nutritional values, you can also craft a recipe according to your requirement. In our kitchen, it forms a key part of guacamole to be served with nachos. It also is part of our spreads on toast which is very popular. But we also include it in a range of healthy salads, or with our habibi panini. I will also introduce a new avocado pachadi to go with posto jhalmuri cookies at Via Bombay that adds a South Indian twist to it.

Avocado pachadi

For the pachadi

- 50 gms fresh avocado
- 20 gms tomato
- 30 ml vegetable oil
- 10 gms dry red chillies
- 10 gms fresh green chillies
- 6 to 7 curry leaves
- Salt to taste
- 5 gms fresh coriander
- 10 gms onion (chopped)
- 6 gms garlic (chopped)

For the tempering

- 2 gms mustard seeds
- 1 gms haldi powder
- 2 gms white til
- 1 gms fenugreek seeds
- 1 gm hing powder
- 3 gms urad dal

METHOD

Place the frying pan on the flame. Add oil, curry leaves to temper. To this, add onion, garlic and sauté for a while. When the onions are caramelised, add the green chillies, dry red chillies, fresh tomatoes and salt. Cover it with a lid, and let them cook for a while till they are soft in texture. Switch off the flame, add avocado and fresh coriander and mix it in thoroughly. Set aside in a bowl.

For tempering, heat oil in a pan. Add white urad dal, mustard seeds, sesame seeds, fenugreek seeds and turmeric powder. Add the tempering to the above mixture in the bowl. Serve with posto biscuits or jhalmuri.
