PATENT BY NIKHIL WANKHEDE ASSISTANT PROFESSOR, BVCHTMS

We are Thrilled to Share Another Milestone of Nikhil Wankhede, Assistant Professor with BVCHTMS. We are proud to announce that he has been granted with a second design patent as the third inventor for the innovation titled “Peltier Enabled Chafing Dish”, officially registered with the Patent Office, Government of India (Design No. 440537-001). The chafing dish is designed to be short-circuit-proof and fire-free, ensuring safety and eliminating the risk of accidents. It operates automatically without any manual intervention, utilizing advanced Peltier technology for heating. This innovation ensures safe, efficient, and intelligent food warming, making it an ideal solution for modern catering and hospitality needs.

This work is a step forward in addressing critical issues in sustainable tourism and resilient development through the lens of big data — a field that holds immense potential for shaping the future of hospitality and tourism industries. 🌍 📊 Grateful for the unwavering support from my institution, colleagues, and everyone who believed in this journey.

REEL MAKING COMPETITION

The poster features a dark purple background with a starry sky. At the top, logos for 'Travel for LIFE', the Ministry of Tourism, and 'Incredible India' are displayed. The central text reads 'Winner Announcement International Museum Day Reel Making Competition' in a mix of bold and cursive fonts. Below this, an illustration shows a person holding a film reel, surrounded by various film-making icons like a camera, clapperboard, and film strip. At the bottom, a photo of three winners is shown, each holding a certificate. To the left of the photo is a large golden trophy, and to the right is a gold medal with the number '1' and a 'FIRST PRIZE' ribbon. The names of the winners are written in cursive below their respective photos.

"My journey from a passionate culinary student to becoming a Sous Chef at Taj Mahal, Lucknow, has been incredible. The strong foundation I received during my time at BVCHTMS played a crucial role in shaping my career. The hands-on training, expert mentorship, and industry exposure prepared me for the dynamic world of hospitality. I am grateful for the knowledge and skills I gained, which continue to guide me in my culinary journey. Proud to be an alumnus."
